NO SHAKEUP IN G. O. P. MANAGEMENT

(By United Press)
Washington, April 13.—There will be no shakeup in national republican headquarters at this time, it has been definitely ascertained. Party leaders will squelch out any shakeup talk. John T. Adams, chairman of the national committee, has returned from an extended European trip. President Harding will take an early opportunity to express every confidence in Adams. In keeping with the desire that politics be adjourned at the present time, it is claimed a statement will be made that it is inappropriate to change party managers at the present time.

AMATEUR BALL LEAGUE URGED

Virginia, April 13.—Steps will be taken by the athletic committee of the Chamber of Commerce to form an amateur baseball league, comprised of teams representing cities as far west as Grand Rapids and east as far as Aurora. BUSINESS CONFERENCE ADOPTS MEASURES URGING GOVERNMENT TO ESTABLISH STEEL BARGE LINE ON UPPER MISSISSIPPI RIVER

(By United Press)
Davenport, Iowa, April 13.—Resolutions that the government take steps to establish a steel barge line from St. Louis to Minneapolis and St. Paul was adopted at a conference here attended by one United States senator, two congressmen, a representative of the war department and four score of influential business men, bankers, manufacturers, shipmen and others interested from 25 Mississippi valley cities.

The resolution also asked that the government make an appropriation to develop the upper Mississippi in the section named and to provide terminal depots and wharves. It is this section of the Mississippi pi that Brainerd is largely interested in. Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis, with a fleet of government barges, shortly before the war bought iron ore from the Merritt mine at Trommald, shipped it by rail via Northern Pacific to St. Paul where it was loaded on the barges and floated down stream to the blast furnaces near St. Louis and there used.

On the up river trip Mr. Goltra loaded with coal and discharged some tonnage at St. Paul. A resumption of barge traffic on this section of the upper Mississippi may serve as an outlet for Cuyuna iron range ore to Mississippi valley points, besides giving the Northern Pacific considerable new tonnage.

SUNDAY BLUE LAWS BILL IN ILLINOIS

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE SPONSORS BILL WHICH RAISES FINE IN THAT STATE

(By United Press)
Springfield, Ill., April 13.—The Lord's Day Alliance has started a campaign for drastic enforcement of Sunday blue laws insofar as they concern commercialized amusements for which admissions are charged in Illinois and especially Chicago, including baseball, theatres, dance halls, picnics, etc.

Senator James E. McMurray of Chicago introduced the bill which is sponsored by the Alliance. Such Sunday amusements as dancing in public halls, bowling, cabarets would be entirely banned. Fairs and exhibitions are also hit.

Ministers and reformers make up an extensive lobby back of the bill. Opponents to the measure are rallying and a supreme test of power will soon be staged.

GERMANY ASKS A JUST PEACE

PRESIDENT EBERT ACCORDS THE UNITED PRESS HIS VIEWS ON SUBJECT

Germany certainly resents the French attitude in the Ruhr, but stands for a just peace, is the gist of an interview granted the United Press by President Ebert. It will appear in two articles of which this is the first.

Berlin, April 13.—The German worker is willing to bear all burdens in his capacity and a due share in the reconstruction problems of the world's social economy. But under the threatening mouths of loaded weapons he cannot carry out many of them, said President Ebert.

President Ebert granted one of the few interviews on political action accorded. He expressed the German willingness for peace coupled with a denunciation of French methods in driving German workers from their homes in a manner like vandals because "these people showed fidelity to their fatherland".

President Ebert believed the American people, accustomed to deal with sober economic problems, had their idea of the effectiveness of the reparation policy.

Every utterance on the Ruhr situation stood in the shadow of the blood bath at Essen, said he. The mourning ceremonies were attended by representatives of the whole nation. It had been the aim to bring about a peaceful solution of questions at the Krupp's. No weapons were raised by the Germans. Their only protest was made when they quit work, taking offense at the armed invasion of the French. If the latter only desired to requisition automobiles, then why bring guns and soldiers to shoot.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS ITS OWN IN TEST WITH THE LABOR PARTY

ENGLISH HOUSE OF COMMONS SCENE OF STRENUOUS 21 HOUR CONTEST

BONAR LAW AND HIS SUPPORTERS BREATHE EASIER AFTER SUCCESSFUL VOTE

London, April 13.—The house of commons debated throughout the night, with the session in full swing today. Labor members government supporters dozed and nodded as the speakers were asleep on benches, while droned on.

Occasional test votes were taken. Finally the session, which had lasted 21 hours came to a close as the bill before the house was voted on, passed its third reading and the members went to bed.

Commons adjourned to Monday and Bonar Law and his supporters breathed easier.

The army and airport bill, subject of the debate, was a relatively unimportant measure, but the government wished to demonstrate it held the balance of power in the house. During the night a number of the labor members sang "John Brown's Body" while votes were polled.

At 10:30 this morning—a labor member moved to amend the army and airport bill, but commons rejected it by a vote of 175 to 103 after two hours of debate.

The snore of two labor members resounded through the chamber and the sleepers awoke indignantly when their removal was demanded. The long session was not marked by the fierce antagonism which blazed forth on Wednesday's session. Ramsey MacDonald was not there, and the labor members were led by J. H. Thomas.

IF FULL OF PEP; WATCH YOUR STEP—IT'S FRIDAY, 13TH

Say your prayers, if superstitions, is our advice today, for today is not only Friday, but the thirteenth, too, they say, and streets are icy and skies are leaden and shedding sleet every minute. The jinx will surely get you, there is no chance to doubt, 'cause dire things are in the air, we recently found out. Walk not under ladders all day today, for while the ladder might not slip, then again—It may. Avoid the storied black cat who tries to cross your path. Be on your guard and swat him, if he tries it, with a lath. That's what some folks would tell you about a day like this. As Shakespeare once did sagely say "Such ignorance is bliss." Back in the far medieval times folks might have felt that way, but you can't kid the people now, for they're too wise today.

SHERIFF TESTIFIES IN PEONAGE CASE

(By United Press)
Tallahassee, Fla., April 13.—Sheriff Jones of Leon county denied that Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, was "railroaded" to the state convict camp. State Senator McNabb said he welcomed the investigation of the whole matter.

Several loads of food were forced in by means of dog sleds. Much suffering exists, as the towns have run short on fuel and food.

Northport, Omena, the other isolated towns, and Suttons Bay are all in Leelanau county in the northern section of the lower peninsula of the state.

SERIOUS DIVISION APPARENT IN THE RULES COMMITTEE

REGULAR HOUSE RULE REQUIRES TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY FOR SPECIAL ORDERS

REP. SWENSON URGED A SPECIAL RULE TO PERMIT SAME UNDER MAJORITY VOTE

(By United Press)
St. Paul, April 13.—The $20,000,000 good roads Babcock bonds issue is still undecided. The house rules committee is trying to thresh out a decision.

Rep. Swenson's motion proposed that a special rule govern, permitting consideration of the bonds as a special order by a majority vote.

The regular house rule requires that special consideration can only be obtained through the required two-thirds majority.

A serious division in the rules committee seems evident. Meanwhile the bill is held at the speaker's desk.

According to Dillon's confession, he said he was driven to fury by the ill treatment accorded him by Father O'Neill, charging he was treated with disrespect ever since he came from Battle Creek.

Father Dillon said he protested in vain. "He ordered me to pack up and leave. I packed up a revolver and not a suit case. I intended giving him a chance to confess. I saw him grab a salt cellar when I entered the room. I fired. After that I don't recall what happened."

REP. SWENSON URGED A SPECIAL RULE TO PERMIT SAME UNDER MAJORITY VOTE
(By United Press)
St. Paul, April 13.—The $20,000,000 good roads Babcock bonds issue is still undecided. The house rules committee is trying to thresh out a decision.

Rep. Swenson's motion proposed that a special rule govern, permitting consideration of the bonds as a special order by a majority vote.

The regular house rule requires that special consideration can only be obtained through the required two-thirds majority.

A serious division in the rules committee seems evident. Meanwhile the bill is held at the speaker's desk.

REAL FOREST FIRE

Filmed in the West for the Big Picture "The Ninety and Nine" Shown Soon

"The Ninety and Nine," shown at the Lyceum April 15 and 16, was filmed with no make believe forest fire for a background, but was snapped while a real one was raging in the foothills of the Sawtooth Range, near Mount Talkwich, a region admirably suited to the story.

Forest fires are no strangers to this section, the inhabitants of which live in dread of them a great part of the year.

Government scout planes patrol the district constantly equipped with wireless, with which they instantly report the first outbreak of a fire to the forest ranger stations scattered over the area.

Wm. T. Cox, State Forester, said of the picture that it was the greatest forest fire ever filmed and that it should be seen to prevent forest fires.

THE USE OF WEALTH

At this time, when there are many voices raised in the United States demanding that higher taxes be placed upon the wealth of the wealthy, serious thought should be given to the probable effect of any legislation of this kind.

It has just been announced that John D. Rockefeller Jr. has an income of $1,000,000 a month from Standard Oil stocks, and the statement has excited many of our people who don't see why the country should not levy heavy taxes on this income. We may safely conclude that John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s income is very much more than $12,000,000 a year, and, having arrived at this conclusion, we need not be unduly excited over it. As Arthur Brisbane says, "It doesn't matter much what anybody's income is. What matters is, what he does with that income." Mr. Brisbane goes on to show that Ireland was impoverished because landlords drew their rents from their estates and spent them in London. Certain Americans, who have made large fortunes or inherited large American fortunes, are doing the same thing—taking these fortunes to Europe to spend them there. Therefore, from the Irish or the American standpoint, the important matter is: What is a man doing with the fortune that he reaps from investment?

Before our intelligent people are brought to approve legislation, directed to the end of levying unduly heavy taxes on such incomes, for the purpose of supplying revenue to the United States treasury, they will ask the question: What will the government do with it, and is the government, judged by what it has done in the past, better qualified to expend this money than those who have earned it through their ability to develop the resources of this great country. And the intelligent people know that the government is not better able to develop our resources. The matter of real importance to the citizens of the United States is not how much a man makes, but how he invests what he makes. If his investments yield large returns that are reinvested in other enterprises that give work to large numbers and make possible the flow of business in an ever-increasing ratio, there is no reason to seek to unduly tax wealth, thereby limiting sane development and throwing the money into the hands of politicians to be recklessly expended. America learned how a government spends money during the World war; and of the way the money was spent, the less said the better. The facts certainly don't convince the intelligent that the government is likely to do better than those, whose reinvestment of their wealth in American enterprises is bringing in a new era of prosperity.

PRESIDENT HARDING MAY CANCEL TRIP WEST

THE chief executive of the United States has been placed in a critical situation by his friends, who, wishing to get his candidacy for another term before the people, have announced that he is a candidate and will be carried into office without much effort. Because of these statements, anything that the president might say, upon his proposed tour through the western states, would be considered as the statement of a candidate for the presidency in the next election. Thus the president is placed in a position that invites serious thought before he decides to start on a tour of the United States.

The president might have asked for America's entrance into the Court of International Justice, speaking as the president, but, speaking as a candidate for re-election, whatever he says will be held for or against him in the campaign. When the tour was first announced the chief executive stated that he would present this matter to the people and ask their aid in bringing this country into the court, but at this time some of his advisers are suggesting that on such a tour he will do well to forget foreign affairs, holding strictly to a discussion of internal interests.

If the president makes the trip and fails to speak on the World court, after promising to deal with it in his speeches, the growing number of those who wish to have America take her place in the World court will be disappointed and will be impressed by the thought that the president has shirked a duty and is steering clear of a subject that will not stay down.

The situation is an embarrassing one. It is too early to make a tour as a candidate for re-election. If the president is to be a candidate he cannot announce that he is not, and if he makes the tour, anything that he says will be used against him by his enemies in the campaign of 1924. However, President Harding's regime has been one in which many perplexing problems have been brought to his attention, problems much more embarrassing than the one which now confronts him and the citizens of the United States are convinced that he will make a fearless decision. If President Harding takes a firm stand for what he believes to be in the best interests of America and the world he will win more support than will be assured him if he stays in Washington to avoid raising an issue at this time. He is in a position of leadership and America needs leadership today.

CHILD WELFARE BOARD

THE report of the work of the Crow Wing County Child Welfare board, given out following the regular meeting of the board, shows a record of service that is commendable. After reading the report the people of this county will be more than ever convinced that this welfare work is very much needed and that the board is doing in a splendid way the work that needs to be done.

Students of welfare work have long ago learned that the work cannot be done in a satisfactory manner except by those who are qualified to attend to the complex problems that are found in the social order. Amateurs, no matter how generous, may create more problems than they solve, when they attempt to make the necessary adjustments in relations that have got out of line. To be able to appreciate the many factors that underlie the trouble that appears on the surface, and to know how to go about removing the underlying causes so that the effects may disappear, is not given to everyone; and only those who have given time and thought to the delicate matter of human relations are able to attempt the work with the assurance that they will bring real improvement.

Given a case in which a girl or a boy has got out of hand, it is not always easy to know just how to proceed to secure the best results for that boy or girl. Sometimes a careful presentation of the matter to the family may bring about a new attitude to life, and, at other times, it is necessary to take the boy or girl out of the family, whose attitude to life, as reflected in the way they live, is not such as to promise any improvement in the future.

Very much of the quiet work done by the board is never made known to the public in all of its details. Such publicity would injure its service to delinquents. If a girl is branded as an undesirable character the stigma is likely to rob her of any self-respect that remains, but if it is possible to appeal to the spark of womanhood that has not been extinguished, it is possible to save her from the consequences of the mistakes already made but which are not generally known to the community.

After reading the report of the work done by the board during the past month, the people of Crow Wing county will be fully convinced, that of all agencies at work for the moral health and physical well-being of the mothers and children of the county, no agency is doing a work that is more needed than that performed by the county Child Welfare board; and they will be fully convinced that this work which is so much needed, as proved by the statistics given in the report, is being attended to by those who are thoroughly prepared to do it with consideration and efficiency.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE RAILROADS

DURING the past few years it has been glibly stated that the railroads of the United States are carrying a lot of watered stock. This charge has been made in such a way that the railroads were bunched together and all came under the indictment. Because of the unhappy situation in which the people have been living, owing to high freight rates and high fares, they have been inclined to accept as true any statements made derogatory to the railroads, and any statements made by the railroads themselves have been taken as propaganda put out for the purpose of deceiving the people, whom the railroads were intent upon fleecing.

Now that the Interstate Commerce commission is submitting reports on the valuation of the railroads, some of the facts will be brought to light, and these will check some of the falsities that have had wide circulation and a quite general acceptance. After working for almost ten years the Interstate Commerce commission has reported on the valuation of the Great Northern railroad and it is found that the valuation placed on the properties of this railroad is around eleven millions more than the railroad's own valuation of its holdings. These figures have been carefully arrived at; they are not the guess of incompetent appraisers. Able statisticians have assembled the figures and the people may well accept them as the real valuation of the properties of one of our large railroads.

These figures are evidence that watered stock is not carried by the Great Northern and the public will be interested in watching the announcement of the valuation of other roads, intent upon finding out where these inflated values exist, and desirous of knowing to what extent the figures submitted by the Interstate Commerce commission will contradict the assertions made by certain leaders of discontent, who have boldly announced that the railroads of the United States are requiring the people to pay interest on investments that have no actual existence.

Such announcements, coming at this time, when an industrial revival is bringing about increases in wages, will do much to check the spread of alarmist propaganda and will help to bring about that spirit of confidence that will lead to the better operation of the railroads, thereby reducing the criticism that is so often and so obviously based upon a misstatement of facts.

We are led to think of immigrants entering this country almost destitute, but, behold, Scandinavians enter carrying a million dollars with them and they are bound for the west. To him that hath shall be given. Money just flows into the United States.

JACK DEMPSEY may become a coal baron and if he does and fights the high cost of coal as successfully as he fought Carpentier consumers will applaud his decision.

THOSE out of power decry the tactics of those in power, and when they swap places they pursue the tactics of which they previously complained.

THE British parliament suffered a reverse in the commons and it doesn't take many reverses to spell the defeat of a ministry.

THE rising tide of prosperity is playing havoc with the propaganda of the radicals.

This charge has been made in such a way that the railroads were bunched together and all came under the indictment. Because of the unhappy situation in which the people have been living, owing to high freight rates and high fares, they have been inclined to accept as true any statements made derogatory to the railroads, and any statements made by the railroads themselves have been taken as propaganda put out for the purpose of deceiving the people, whom the railroads were intent upon fleecing.

Now that the Interstate Commerce commission is submitting reports on the valuation of the railroads, some of the facts will be brought to light, and these will check some of the falsities that have had wide circulation and a quite general acceptance. After working for almost ten years the Interstate Commerce commission has reported on the valuation of the Great Northern railroad and it is found that the valuation placed on the properties of this railroad is around eleven millions more than the railroad's own valuation of its holdings. These figures have been carefully arrived at; they are not the guess of incompetent appraisers. Able statisticians have assembled the figures and the people may well accept them as the real valuation of the properties of one of our large railroads.

These figures are evidence that watered stock is not carried by the Great Northern and the public will be interested in watching the announcement of the valuation of other roads, intent upon finding out where these inflated values exist, and desirous of knowing to what extent the figures submitted by the Interstate Commerce commission will contradict the assertions made by certain leaders of discontent, who have boldly announced that the railroads of the United States are requiring the people to pay interest on investments that have no actual existence.

Such announcements, coming at this time, when an industrial revival is bringing about increases in wages, will do much to check the spread of alarmist propaganda and will help to bring about that spirit of confidence that will lead to the better operation of the railroads, thereby reducing the criticism that is so often and so obviously based upon a misstatement of facts.

WE are led to think of immigrants entering this country almost destitute, but, behold, Scandinavians enter carrying a million dollars with them and they are bound for the west. To him that hath shall be given. Money just flows into the United States.

JACK DEMPSEY may become a coal baron and if he does and fights the high cost of coal as successfully as he fought Carpentier consumers will applaud his decision.

you must add this extra depreciation to arrive at the real cost of the car.

The trade-in price of Studebaker cars shows a very small depreciation, in many sections the smallest of all makes of motor cars. And there is always a ready market for used cars of Studebaker manufacture.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

'TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY'

Mary Pickfords New Picture Will Be Shown at the Lyceum Soon

THEATRE SCHEDULE CHANGED

To Give Big Pictures Longer Runs—New Bookings Involve Thousands of Dollars

Braierd theatre-goers are due for a look at the biggest and most imposing motion pictures of today at the Lyceum. What may be considered one of the biggest deals ever consummated for screen entertainment in Braierd has just been closed by the Lyceum company. Always an advocate of better pictures, Manager Hiller's efforts and the new policies as set by this popular playhouse, will be to present in addition to the famous Paramount pictures, the largest and greatest super-specials ever offered to the public anywhere. Owing to the magnitude of some of the pictures already booked, the Lyceum has changed its schedule so that their bigger specials will open on Sunday and run three days instead of two whenever it is necessary. In making this change it does not affect their Wednesday and Friday changes, which remain the same, and at the same time gives the larger attractions a longer run when ever the demand warrants it, and does not break into the other change days.

As a starter the first of the big supers will be Mary Pickford in her latest and greatest attraction "Tess of the Storm Country", which recently broke all box-office records at the New Garlick theatre, Minneapolis. It is said there is as much difference between this new version and her old "Tess" as day and night. It will be remembered that this was the picture that made Mary Pickford a star over night.

Others to follow the Pickford special are D. W. Griffith's "The Exciting Minute", "The Old Homestead", "Burning Sand", "Kick In", "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and many other big ones.

Manager Hiller says in all his years as a motion picture exhibitor which dates back to 1910, he has never seen or heard of so many exceptionally good feature pictures booked for any one theatre, at any one time, in a town the size of Braierd as the Lyceum is now offering.

Famous Bells.

The curfew bell, the Angelus bell and the passing bell are part of bell practice and tradition. The ringing of bells ushered in the French revolution. The great bell of St. Marks, Venice, and others, equally famous, were alarms.

Fish Affected by Cold.

Congers and pikeheads have died from cold off the Cornish coast, and the once plentiful boardfish have never been seen in the shallow waters of Cornwall since a violent easterly gale blew in 1879.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

COLD LIGHT NOT UNUSUAL

Nature Has Produced It, but Scientists Admit It Has Been Beyond Their Powers.

Prof. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton, who published a book on cold light in 1920 and who is continuing his studies, is not yet ready to admit that science has made much progress in that direction, remarks the Indianapolis News. Science knows that some bacteria, insects and fish give off a light that has practically no heat. Getting enough of this material to determine its composition, and then to manufacture it is a dream of everyone connected with such investigations, but so far the experiments have not been successful. Fireflies, squids that generate a pale-blue light, and other creatures that are luminous at night are under examination. Professor Harvey went to Japan, where he studied fireflies by thousands. There he found a small crablike form, about one-eighth of an inch long, with a bi-valve shell something like a clam. This sea creature, called cypridina, has a large gland near its mouth which serves as the generating station for a cold bluish light. Professor Harvey also found a luminous centipede, but most of his attention has been given to cypridina, of which he brought home specimens to be used in further experiments. He crushed hundreds of dried cypridina in a mortar. When water was added a blue light was seen. Tests with a delicate thermometer showed a rise in temperature of less than one-thousandth of a degree. Here was a substance that gave light with practically no heat. As yet Professor Harvey has been unable to determine its chemical content. Other investigators also have failed to solve the problem. Discovery of a way to make cold light would have tremendous commercial possibilities.

RESPONDED 'AT WRONG TIME'

Embarrassed Bridegroom Probably Heard Something Later From the Girl of His Heart.

The groom was embarrassed; the bride was self-possessed.

"If it were only over," he whispered, excitedly, "I know I'll do it wrong."

"It won't take long, dearie," she answered, consolingly. "You haven't much to say."

Suddenly there came to the ears of the groom the voice of the minister, saying "Kindly change places with the bride."

The groom tried to do so, but stepped on the toe of her shoe, and raising his arm, caught his cuff button in her veil.

"Do be careful," she implored.

The minister began the ceremony.

Tailor Makes Valuable Find

"After spending $900 for medicine and doctors in four years without getting any benefit for stomach trouble and bloating I was induced by my druggist to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and must say that a $1 bottle has done me $500 worth of good." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and all leading druggists.

The groom grew more and more embarrassed and fumbled with the rose of the bride's bouquet. Then he put his hand into his pocket and pulling out his handkerchief excitedly mopped his brow.

The church was silent save for the voice of the minister.

"If any person knows any just reason," he said, "why these two should not be joined together, let him now speak or forever—"

"I will!" shouted the groom.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Had No Shoes Until He Was Thirteen.

"I had neither a hat nor a pair of shoes until I was thirteen. When it was too cold in winter to go outdoors, I had to stay in the house. But my feet were so accustomed to the cold, never having had a covering, that they could endure a good deal of frost without great inconvenience," relates Hudson Maxim in American Magazine. "Very well do I remember playing on the ice of a nearby stream with the boys of a neighbor who had shoes. They could run and slide on the ice, while I could not, because my bare feet would not slip. Happily, I thought of the expedient of coating the bottoms of my feet with snow by rubbing them in the snow or frost, when for a while I, too, could slide on my feet."

"At one time I went to school barefoot, a distance of two miles, for several weeks after the early snows came. I ran along through the snow as long as I could stand it, then I climbed up on a fence or a big boulder, and rubbed my feet and ankles to warm them—then, went on."

The Baffled Men.

Millinery looks alike to mere man, especially when two hats of the same color and general contour are seen from the rear. The other day two couples, strangers, boarded a street car at the same corner, and while the sheiks paid the fare, the shebas selected seats across the aisle from each other. Then Sheik No. 1 went to join his lady, and sat himself beside the hat he thought she wore. The face under the hat was looking out the window, and nothing was said for a moment. Then he felt a hand on his shoulder, and Sheik No. 2 said, "I guess you've got the wrong seat." Sheik No. 1 and both shebas blushed furiously, and the passengers roared.—Detroit News.

Reverses Sounds.

A curious instrument has recently been invented capable of reversing the sounds of a word or a sentence. A steel piano wire, carried on two spools, passes between the poles of a small electromagnet, so connected with a telephone transmitter that spoken words are magnetically recorded on the moving wire and reproduced in a receiving instrument. When the motion of the wire is direct, the words are heard as in ordinary conversation, but if the motion is reversed, the sounds come to the ear in reverse order, like words spelled backwards.

ANNUAL PLAY OF DRAMA LEAGUE

Given at Home of Mrs. George D. La-Bar on Last Tuesday Afternoon

"OVERTONES" WAS THE TITLE

Mrs. C. L. Burnett Gave an Explanation of the Purpose of the One Act Play

(Contributed)

The program of the Drama League, given at the home of Mrs. George La-Bar on Tuesday afternoon, was of especial interest to the members of the club and a few invited guests, it being the occasion of the presentation of the annual play.

The program was opened by a song, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise"—Ernest Seitz, delightfully rendered by Mrs. J. H. Knebelberg accompanied by Mrs. Carl Zapffe.

Mrs. C. L. Burnett, who always so capably directs the Drama League plays, announced that the one chosen for the afternoon was the one act play, "Overtones" by Alice Gertsenberg.

Before proceeding with the play, Mrs. Burnett gave a splendid explanation of the purpose and development of the one act play. She said in part:

"The one act play is taking a new form of drama, more emphatically, a new form of literature. In former years, it was always presented as a curtain-raiser, or used as an after-piece of a tragic production; the purpose being to balance the heavier theme of the tragedy and send the audience home in good spirits.

"Some critics have alluded to it as a 'Good Pudding' for an inferior play. However, the one act play of today has its place. It has found refuge and encouragement in the experimental theatres and among amateurs. The Washington Square Players, a permanent New York organization, have been untiring in their efforts to bring about this dramatic innovation.

"When players are inexperienced it is far easier to present a one act play than it is to sustain a set of characters for an entire evening. The action moves more rapidly and the tale is told before the monotony of the actors and acting become too apparent.

"The American Little Theatres are given over almost entirely to the one act play. It is quite their custom to present two or three one act plays for an evening's entertainment. Most of these plays are approved by the Board of Directors of the Drama League of America."

The cast of characters for "Overtones" was as follows:

Harriet, (A cultured society woman of today).....Mrs. W. A. Erickson

Hetty, (Harriet's primitive self).....Mrs. A. C. Weber

Margaret, (The cultured wife of a struggling artist).....Mrs. C. W. Hoffman

Maggie, (Margaret's primitive self).....Mrs. D. E. Whitney

From a literary point of view, "Overtones" is the finest one act play that has been given by the local Drama League. It made more demands on the real acting ability of the one interpreting the different characters than any previous play.

Mrs. W. A. Erickson gave a thoughtful and artistic interpretation of the worldly cultured woman of today as society sees her.

Mrs. A. C. Weber was splendid as Hetty, showing the real self of Harriet, which for social or business reason, could not be shown to society.

Mrs. C. W. Hoffman, as Margaret the happy, cultured wife of the artist, gave a true-to-life picture of the assistance a real wife can be to a husband who is endeavoring to climb the ladder of his soul's ambition, even if it be at the cost of suppressing her real self.

Mrs. D. E. Whitney showed real natural dramatic talent in her portrayal of Margaret's primitive self.

Trayal of Margaret's primitive self. (The artist's wife). It is understood that this was Mrs. Whitney's own interpretation of the part and it was a good one. One of the members of the League said that she was constantly reminded of Mansfield's portrayal of Hamlet's ghost.

Taking the play as a whole, it was a fine, sustained, bit of acting and both the cast and Mrs. Burnett, the director, should be congratulated on its artistic success.

The closing number was a song, "I Know a Lovely Garden", Guy D. Hardelot, sung by Mrs. Mal Clark accompanied by Mrs. Walter F. Wieland. It is always a pleasure to the audience to have Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Wieland appear on a program.

It was a worthwhile afternoon.

ANNUAL PLAY OF DRAMA LEAGUE

Given at Home of Mrs. George D. La-Bar on Last Tuesday Afternoon

"OVERTONES" WAS THE TITLE
Mrs. C. L. Burnett Gave an Explanation of the Purpose of the One Act Play
(Contributed)

The program of the Drama League, given at the home of Mrs. George La-Bar on Tuesday afternoon, was of especial interest to the members of the club and a few invited guests, it being the occasion of the presentation of the annual play.

The program was opened by a song, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise"—Ernest Seitz, delightfully rendered by Mrs. J. H. Krekelberg accompanied by Mrs. Carl Zapffe.

Mrs. C. L. Burnett, who always so capably directs the Drama League plays, announced that the one chosen for the afternoon was the one act play, "Overtones" by Alice Gertsenberg.

Before proceeding with the play, Mrs. Burnett gave a splendid explanation of the purpose and development of the one act play. She said in part:

"The one act play is taking a new form of drama, more emphatically, a new form of literature. In former years, it was always presented as a curtain-raiser, or used as an after-piece of a tragic production; the purpose being to balance the heavier theme of the tragedy and send the audience home in good spirits.

"Some critics have alluded to it as a 'Good Pudding' for an inferior play. However, the one act play of today has its place. It has found refuge and encouragement in the experimental theatres and among amateurs. The Washington Square Players, a permanent New York organization, have been untiring in their efforts to bring about this dramatic innovation.

"When players are inexperienced it is far easier to present a one act play than it is to sustain a set of characters for an entire evening. The action moves more rapidly and the tale is told before the monotony of the actors and acting become too apparent.

"The American Little Theatres are given over almost entirely to the one act play. It is quite their custom to present two or three one act plays for an evening's entertainment. Most of these plays are approved by the Board of Directors of the Drama League of America."

The cast of characters for "Overtones" was as follows:

Harriet, (A cultured society woman of today).....Mrs. W. A. Erickson
Hetty, (Harriet's primitive self).....

.....Mrs. A. C. Weber
Margaret, (The cultured wife of a struggling artist).....

.....Mrs. C. W. Hoffman

The closing number was a song, "I Know a Lovely Garden", Guy D. Hardelet, sung by Mrs. Mal Clark accompanied by Mrs. Walter F. Wieland. It is always a pleasure to the audience to have Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Wieland appear on a program.

TAG DAY TO BE DESIGNATED SOON

Part of Money so Raised Goes to Health Fund, Balance to Maintain Nurse's Car

CITY NURSE MAKES REPORT

Much Work Has Been Accomplished During Month in School Clinics And Aiding Poor

The Nurse Supervising Committee, at its regular monthly meeting, took up the matter of holding a tag day, it being the opinion of those present that such an event should be held in the near future for the support of the nurse's car; part of the money raised to be used for a health fund for the coming year. The city car has been used constantly for a year and a half, and it was decided to have it thoroughly overhauled.

The rewards to be given the children in the present dental contest was discussed and Mrs. Gemmell was appointed to confer with Superintendent Cobb on the subject.

The following monthly report was submitted by the city and school nurse: On account of the number of cases of grippe in the city this month, an unusually large number of calls were made and nursing care given. The total number of visits were 261, and the number of cases given nursing care, 35. Calls on school children totaled 95.

The number of contagious diseases found were scarlet fever 1, scabies 5 and impetigo 11. Eight children were taken to doctors and on to the hospital.

The local dentists held clinics throughout the schools, examining 1,830 children. 72% of these children need dental care. During the Easter vacation many of the children had their teeth taken care of.

An individual inspection was given 195 children and 75 notices of defects were sent to parents. 39 had defective vision and 10 corrections were found. 27 apparently diseased tonsils and five corrections.

Fifteen were 7% or more underweight and 8 were 20% overweight. The expenses for the month were: new tire, $16.65, gasoline $11.96, repairs $6.99, telephone $1.50, office supplies 35c.

Four truants were reported to Chief of police, Erick Graff, and one boy, who is a frequent truant, was brought before the city attorney.

Twenty poor cases were investigated. Some were able to get along without help. Church organizations helped five, the city helped five, and the parent-teachers association assisted one.

ATTENDED PRESBYTERY

Rev. S. M. Kelly Officiated as Clerk at Meeting Held in Moorhead

Rev. S. M. Kelly of the First Presbyterian church returned Thursday evening from Moorhead, Minnesota, where he was in attendance at the regular meeting of the Presbytery of Red River, of which he is clerk.

Tuesday the members of the Presbytery were guests of the Moorhead Masonic lodge at a six o'clock dinner.

The evening meeting on Tuesday was held in conjunction with the Fargo Presbytery, and was addressed by Rev. H. C. Swearingen, of St. Paul, former moderator of the general assembly.

At the afternoon session Wednesday, Rev. E. L. Kelly of Ironton, was unanimously elected as clerical commissioner to the general assembly which meets in Indianapolis in May.

SOUTH SIDE BOY

SCOUTS ON HIKE

Leave Saturday for White Sand Lake, William Zakariassen in Charge of Troop

BIG PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Troop No. 2 Has Not Reached Its Full Quota, 3 or 4 More Boys Can Join

The South Side Boy Scout troop, No. 2, at the meeting on last Wednesday night, decided to go on a hike Saturday, White Sand Lake being their objective point. The boys will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at seven o'clock tomorrow morning, and have a good, heavy program outlined for the day.

Tomorrow evening the boys will meet at 7:30 in the basement of the Lincoln school for the purpose of study and to make bird houses.

William Zakariassen is in charge of this troop, and has been doing exceptionally good work with the boys. They are all highly interested in their work, and very enthusiastic over the prospects for a busy summer ahead of them.

This troop has not reached its full quota, as yet, three or four boys within the age limits are still needed, preferably young fellows from the South Side.

All who wish to become members are asked to attend the next meeting on Wednesday night, April 18th, in the basement of the Bethlehem Lutheran church.

On last Wednesday night the troop was inspected by the Scout Committee, who were loud in their praise of the progress made by the boys in the month and a half that they have been training. Their work is reported as being very good for a troop having such a short experience.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Largest Attendance on Record of 1st Congregational Society at Home of Mrs. H. L. Jones

The largest attendance of the First Congregational Missionary society was the meeting at Mrs. H. L. Jones', Wednesday afternoon, at which 100 visitors were present. The following program, with Mrs. Jones, leader, was carried out:

A Missionary Church—Mrs. Jones.
Congregational Missionary Societies—Mrs. Slipp.

The Mountain Whites—Mrs. C. W. Hoffman.

A Sioux Testimony—Mrs. Spencer.
A New Letter from New Mexico—Mrs. F. W. Wieland.

The appeal of Porto Rico—Miss Robinson.

Origin of Mr. Holyoke College—Mrs. Losey.

New Letter from Blanche Kellogg Institute—Mrs. J. F. Woodhead.

The American Negro—Mrs. Irma C. Hartley.

The social hour followed with the hostess serving refreshments, at which Mrs. George Whitney and Miss Mae Jones assisted.

Attention was called to the loss sustained by the missionary society with the passing of Mrs. J. A. Wilson. That she was interested in missions, the needs and accomplishments, was evidenced by her keen interest in the mission studies, as during the study period from September 1922 to March 1923, she only missed one meeting and that from inclement weather.

"Whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are of good report, think on these things." That she believed in the work of missions, in obedience to the Divine command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," was shown by her willingness to give of her prayers, money and service, which she bestowed to the last, assisting in White Cross work the evening of March 6th, and in attendance at the missionary meeting of the 14th, thus in "Always abounding in the work of the Lord, her labor is not in vain, in the Lord."

That she was an inspiration and helped hold up the hands of members of the society, in the plan of missions, was assured by her steadfast and unmovable faith in her Lord and Saviour of the whole world and her firm belief in the Bible as the true Word of God, proving "Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of my heart."

We recall upon one occasion, in her calm and determined manner, which was characteristic of her rich personality, she rebuked the one who was sowing seed of doubt and unbelief, in departing from the Truth, by calling attention to the word pronounced upon all those who "Add unto or shall take away from the words of the Book," she, being dead, yet speaketh.

That her life proved her having chosen the "Better part" in keeping with the Master's command, "But seek first the kingdom of God," and that also as a professed Christian in the belief of the Deity of Jesus Christ and redemption through His atoning and redeeming sacrifice, which belief from her had never been taken away, for her could the promise be claimed, "And that believing yet might have life through his name." That in reflecting the Divine life, she shall so reap, we further have assurance, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

That she has received a reward, the Word declares, "I have kept the faith," "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give to me at that day."

That in claiming the promise to her faithfulness, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life," we do testify. That she had no fear, when at midnight of the 18th of March came the summons, to "Come up higher," was manifested in her belief in the whole Bible, "Though I passed through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me."

That she is and will be, missed in the carrying on of the missionary program and in all departments of the church, as well as the various ways she came into our lives, is shown by the monument of loving hearts, who mourn for her, though realizing our loss is her gain. "Thy shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels."

That the Banner of the Cross, under which she served, for the displaying of the true Gospel, both in the Home and Foreign lands, may be lifted up by all those who are left to carry on, so may we "Press toward the mark."

"Thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be displayed because of the truth." "Behold, I come quickly, hold that fast which thou hast, that no man taketh the crown."

TAG DAY TO BE DESIGNATED SOON

Part of Money so Raised Goes to Health Fund, Balance to Maintain Nurse's Car

CITY NURSE MAKES REPORT

Much Work Has Been Accomplished During Month in School Clinics And Aiding Poor

The Nurse Supervising Committee, at its regular monthly meeting, took up the matter of holding a tag day, it being the opinion of those present that such an event should be held in the near future for the support of the nurse's car; part of the money raised to be used for a health fund for the coming year. The city car has been used constantly for a year, and a half, and it was decided to have it thoroughly overhauled.

The rewards to be given the children in the present dental contest was discussed and Mrs. Gemmell was appointed to confer with Superintendent Cobb on the subject.

The following monthly report was submitted by the city and school nurse: On account of the number of cases of grippe in the city this month, an unusually large number of calls were made and nursing care given. The total number of visits were 261, and the number of cases given nursing care, 35. Calls on school children totaled 95.

The number of contagious diseases found were scarlet fever 1, scarves 5 and impetigo 11. Eight children were taken to doctors and on to the hospital.

The local dentists held clinics throughout the schools, examining 1,830 children. 72% of these children need dental care. During the Easter vacation many of the children had their teeth taken care of.

An individual inspection was given 195 children and 75 notices of defects were sent to parents. 39 had defective vision and 10 corrections were found. 27 apparently diseased tonsils and five corrections.

Fifteen were 7% or more underweight and 8 were 20% overweight. The expenses for the month were: new tire, $16.65, gasoline $11.96, repairs $6.99, telephone $1.50, office supplies 35c.

Four truants were reported to Chief of police, Erick Graff, and one boy, who is a frequent truant, was brought before the city attorney.

Twenty poor cases were investigated. Some were able to get along without help. Church organizations helped five, the city helped five, and the parent-teachers association assisted one.

SOUTH SIDE BOY SCOUTS ON HIKE

Leave Saturday for White Sand Lake, William Zakariassen in Charge of Troop

BIG PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Troop No. 2 Has Not Reached Its Full Quota, 3 or 4 More Boys Can Join

The South Side Boy Scout troop, No. 2, at the meeting on last Wednesday night, decided to go on a hike Saturday, White Sand lake being their objective point. The boys will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at seven o'clock tomorrow morning, and have a good, heavy program outlined for the day.

Tomorrow evening the boys will meet at 7:30 in the basement of the Lincoln school for the purpose of study and to make bird houses.

William Zakariassen is in charge of this troop, and has been doing exceptionally good work with the boys. They are all highly interested in their work, and very enthusiastic over the prospects for a busy summer ahead of them.

This troop has not reached its full quota, as yet, three or four boys within the age limits are still needed, preferably young fellows from the South Side.

All who wish to become members are asked to attend the next meeting on Wednesday night, April 18th, in the basement of the Bethlehem Lutheran church.

On last Wednesday night the troop was inspected by the Scout Committee, who were loud in their praise of the progress made by the boys in the month and a half that they have been training. Their work is reported as being very good for a troop having such a short experience.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Largest Attendance on Record of 1st Congregational Society at Home of Mrs. H. L. Jones

The largest attendance of the First Congregational Missionary society was the meeting at Mrs. H. L. Jones', Wednesday afternoon, at which ten visitors were present. The following program, with Mrs. Jones, leader, was carried out:

A Missionary Church—Mrs. Jones.
Congregational Missionary Societies—Mrs. Slipp.

The Mountain Whites—Mrs. C. W. Hoffman.

A Sioux Testimony—Mrs. Spencer.
A New Letter from New Mexico—Mrs. F. W. Wieland.

The appeal of Porto Rico—Miss Robinson.

Origin of Mr. Holyoke College—Mrs. Losey.

New Letter from Blanche Kellogg Institute—Mrs. J. F. Woodhead.

The American Negro—Mrs. Irma C. Hartley.

The social hour followed with the hostess serving refreshments, at which Mrs. George Whitney and Miss Mae Jones assisted.

Attention was called to the loss sustained by the missionary society with the passing of Mrs. J. A. Wilson. That she was interested in missions, the needs and accomplishments was evidenced by her keen interest in the mission studies, as during the study period from September 1922 to March 1923, she only missed one meeting, and that from inclement weather.

"Whatever things are true, whatever things are of good report, think on these things." That she believed in the work of missions, in obedience to the Divine command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," was shown by her willingness to give of her prayers, money and service, which she bestowed to the last, assisting in White Cross work the evening of March 6th, and in attendance at the missionary meeting of the 14th, thus in "Always abounding in the work of the Lord, her labor is not in vain, in the Lord."

That she was an inspiration and helped hold up the hands of members of the society, in the plan of missions, was assured by her steadfast and unmovable faith in her Lord and Saviour of the whole world and her

SPORTS

BROWNS LOOK WEAKER FOR THE 1923 RACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, April 12.—Lee Fohl, had he the temperament of a crab, could find plenty of reasons for howling that he had been picked out for about all the slaps that Bad Luck reserved for the American League in 1922.

This time last year the pennant chances of the St. Louis Browns were so bright and rosy that the fans of the Missouri metropolis were tuning their voices to acclaim the virtues of the man and the team who were to bring the first world's series into their front yard.

The voices were tuned up harmoniously, but they were never used, because a load of bad breaks settled on the Browns and they missed out in a terrific battle with the New York Yankees by one slim game.

First came the injury which threw Ellerbe off third base and forced Fohl to use the veterans, Bronkie and Foster, in a position where speed on foot and a live arm are needed more than the stout hearts of those veterans.

Then the pitching staff was disorganized. "Shucks" Pruett, young Missouri University pitcher, who jumped into fame by fanning Babe Ruth ten out of the first twelve times that he pitched to him, came up with a lame arm and held the bench for most of the season. Dave Danforth persisted in tampering with the ball until he had to be released, because the umpires and the managers of the rival clubs camped on him too much for the use of illegal deliveries.

Perhaps the peculiar conviction that he couldn't pitch winning games without digging his finger nails into the seams of the ball made Danforth one of the biggest factors in the loss of the pennant for the Browns. There is little doubt that Danforth could have won ten or twelve games instead of five, because Fohl insisted that he had plenty to get by with on "straight stuff."

Sisler, according to late information, will not be able to start the season, and it may be months before he can get into his real game. No one can take the place of Sisler in that lineup because there is only one Sisler.

Some rather competent baseball judges have said that the Browns were not a smart ball club last year, and if they had been mentally alert, they might have picked up a couple of games they dropped and that they could have overcome the Yankee lead with those games.

Since nothing is really known about what Fohl has found among his rookies, the Browns do not look as strong as they were last year. If he is not overworked, Shocker may win more games than he did last year, but he is no youngster and he might feel the effects of what he went through last year.

Morally, at least, if not in actual mechanical strength, the Yanks ought to be better this year and they will be harder to beat. The Detroit Tigers are stronger and the Browns perhaps are in such a position that they have to watch the White Sox and the Athletics to keep from being run over in the big push.

WESTERN LEAGUE OPENS '23 SEASON

St. Joseph, Mo., April 13.—The 24th annual Western League baseball race opened here with St. Joseph celebrating its 21st season in organized baseball by facing the Sioux City Packers.

ONLY SPORT CONTESTS IN '24 OLYMPIC GAMES

Rome, April 12.—Only athletics in which the element of sport predominates will make up the program for the 1924 Olympic games which are to be held in the Columbus stadium, in the suburbs of Paris. Many of the events of a non-sporting character, which seriously handicapped the American teams in previous games because the Americans had no entrants in them, have been eliminated from the official program, which was published yesterday.

Old City of Magenta.
Before it was designated a color, magenta was—and still is—the name of a city in Italy. The red aniline dye was first produced in the Italian city, or obtained its name from the city in the country of vivid colors. At Magenta, which is 24 miles northwest of Pavia, a great battle was fought, in 1859, in which the Austrians were defeated by the combined French and Sardinians.

The Painter's Task.
The painter must study more from nature than the man of words. But why? Because literature deals with men's business and passions, which are so irresistibly obliged to study; but painting with relations of light, and color, and significance, and form, which from the immemorial habit of the race, we pass over with unregarding eye.—R. L. Stevenson.

Books Revised by Writers.
The editions of books printed 200 or 300 years ago are almost entirely free from typographical errors, which may be attributed to the fact that the early publishers were generally eminent scholars and themselves gave much attention to the revision of their proofs.

Once Fertile Lands Now Deserts.
Northern Africa, especially about Carthage, Tunis and Cyrene at one time supported a population of many millions more than now occupy these lands. The valleys of the Euphrates and Tigris were fertile lands and supported empires. Egypt had a dense population and the cultivation was intensive.

To Each Man His Duty.
In the morning when thou risest unwillingly, let this thought be present: "I am rising to the work of a human being. Why, then, am I dissatisfied if I am going to do the things for which I exist, and for which I was brought into the world? Or, have I been made for this, to lie in the bed-clothes, and keep myself warm?"—Marcus Aurelius.

DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM AT LYCEUM TONIGHT

Mix Makes Daring Leaps in New Picture

Tom Mix has a new picture with the alluring title of "Tom Mix in Arabia," which comes to the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday. It is the greatest "stunt" production that this agile Fox star has appeared in so far. Among other reckless feats is leaping an automobile over a fifteen foot embankment into the sea, and scaling the front of a castle at a rate of speed that would give the auditor of an accident insurance company a terrible chill.

But his most surprising stunts are performed in the interior of the castle, which is supposed to stand on the brink of the sea which washes the shore of Arabia. The Arabian gentleman in charge of the castle has made up his mind that Tom shall remain a prisoner, and that hard riding son of the Golden West sets out to liberate himself and a young American girl who is being detained by this same follower of the prophet.

There is a flying leap and somersault from a balcony into a sunken bath in the center of the castle floor that took the breath of even the Bedouins themselves.

Round 1 of "Fighting Blood"
The latest striking example of how a virtually perfect story in type can be immeasurably improved in its power to entertain when intelligently told in motion pictures is the first episode of the "Fighting Blood" series playing at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday.

The "Fighting Blood" stories, by H. C. Witwer, made immense reading in the pages of Collier's Weekly. Brought to life on the screen with handsome George O'Hara as Gale Galen, the films are entertaining to the nth degree. It has been said by some that it is impossible to screen subtle humor—that screen humor must necessarily be of the slapstick variety. But "Fighting Blood" proves that it is possible to convey in motion pictures stories of such subtle humor that even while the spectator is being carried along in a rush of drama, thrills and romance he is constantly chuckling to himself and often bursting into uncontrollable laughter.

Not the least exciting part of the "Fighting Blood" pictures is the thrilling prize fight that takes place in every "round."

RICHARD BARTHELMESS and Tyrone Power in "FURY"

Barthelmess Gives Screen His Greatest Photodrama in "Fury"

Perhaps no word in the dictionary has been quite so overworked, misused and abused as "Great." It is a word that has been applied indiscriminately to many motion pictures. Once in a great while—and in this instance it is very properly applied—a photoplay justly deserves the appellation. Such a motion picture was "Tolable David." Now comes Richard Barthelmess in another which impels us to go one step further in superlatives and say "Greater," if not "Greatest."

That motion picture is "Fury," the First National attraction which will be shown at the New Park on Saturday and Sunday.

In this screen story by Edmund Goulding one sees Richard Barthelmess as "Boy" Leyton, the timid second mate of the "Lady Spray," whose rough old father, the captain, hates him for his docility. The whole nature of "Boy" undergoes a sudden change, however, when old "Dog" Leyton, learning of his son's contemplated elopement with a Limehouse boarding house slavey, casts aspersions upon Minnie. The enraged lad springs at his father and the captain, overjoyed at his son's display of courage, seizes him to his breast. Captain Leyton suffers a heart stroke and, dying, exacts a promise from "Boy" to avenge his mother, who has been mistreated by the man she had run away with. This must be done before he marries Minnie. The story has a novel twist that brings it to the happiest of conclusions.

Dorothy Gish gives one of her most appealing characterizations as Minnie.

SPORTS

BROWNS LOOK WEAKER FOR THE 1923 RACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, April 12.—Lee Fohl, had he been picked out for about all the slaps that had been reserved for the American League in 1922.

This time last year the pennant chances of the St. Louis Browns were so bright and rosy that the fans of the Missouri metropolis were tuning their voices to acclaim the virtues of the man and the team who were to bring the first world's series into their front yard.

The voices were tuned up harmoniously, but they were never used, because a load of bad breaks settled on the Browns and they missed out in a terrific battle with the New York Yankees by one slim game.

First came the injury which threw Ellerbe off third base and forced Fohl to use the veterans, Bronkie and Foster, in a position where speed on foot and a live arm are needed more than the stout hearts of those veterans.

Then the pitching staff was disorganized. "Shucks" Pruett, young Missouri University pitcher, who jumped into fame by fanning Babe Ruth ten out of the first twelve times that he pitched to him, came up with a lame arm and held the bench for most of the season. Dave Danforth persisted in tampering with the ball until he had to be released, because the umpires and the managers of the rival clubs camped on him too much for the use of illegal deliveries.

Perhaps the peculiar conviction that he couldn't pitch winning games without digging his finger nails into the seams of the ball made Danforth one of the biggest factors in the loss of the pennant for the Browns. There is little doubt that Danforth could have won ten or twelve games instead of five, because Fohl insisted that he had plenty to get by with on "straight stuff."

Sisler, according to late information, will not be able to start the season, and it may be months before he can get into his real game. No one can take the place of Sisler in that lineup because there is only one Sisler.

Some rather competent baseball judges have said that the Browns were not a smart ball club last year, and if they had been mentally alert, they might have picked up a couple of games they dropped and that they could have overcome the Yankee lead with those games.

Since nothing is really known about what Fohl has found among his rookies, the Browns do not look as strong as they were last year. If he is not overworked, Shocker may win more games than he did last year, but he is no youngster and he might feel the effects of what he went through last year.

Morally, at least, if not in actual mechanical strength, the Yanks ought to be better this year and they will be harder to beat. The Detroit Tigers are stronger and the Browns perhaps are in such a position that they have to watch the White Sox and the Athletics to keep from being run over in the big push.

WESTERN LEAGUE OPENS '23 SEASON

St. Joseph, Mo., April 13.—The 24th annual Western League baseball race opened here with St. Joseph celebrating its 21st season in organized baseball by facing the Sioux City Packers.

ONLY SPORT CONTESTS IN '24 OLYMPIC GAMES

Rome, April 12.—Only athletics in which the element of sport predominates will make up the program for the 1924 Olympic games which are to be held in the Columbus stadium, in the suburbs of Paris. Many of the events of a nonsporting character, which seriously handicapped the American teams in previous games because the Americans had no entrants in them, have been eliminated from the official program, which was published yesterday.

Old City of Magenta.
Before it was designated a color, magenta was—and still is—the name of a city in Italy. The red aniline dye was first produced in the Italian city, or obtained its name from the city in the country of vivid colors. At Magenta, which is 24 miles northwest of Pavia, a great battle was fought, in 1859, in which the Austrians were defeated by the combined French and Sardinians.

The Painter's Task.
The painter must study more from nature than the man of words. But why? Because literature deals with men's business and passions, which we are irresistibly obliged to study; but painting with relations of light, and color, and significance, and form, which from the immemorial habit of the race, we pass over with unregarding eye.—R. L. Stevenson.

Books Revised by Writers.
The editions of books printed 200 or 300 years ago are almost entirely free from typographical errors, which may be attributed to the fact that the early publishers were generally eminent scholars and themselves gave much attention to the revision of their proofs.

Once Fertile Lands Now Deserts.
Northern Africa, especially about Carthage, Tunis and Cyrene at one time supported a population of many millions more than now occupy these lands. The valleys of the Euphrates and Tigris were fertile lands and supported empires. Egypt had a dense population and the cultivation was intensive.

To Each Man His Duty.
In the morning when thou risest unwillingly, let this thought be present: "I am rising to the work of a human being. Why, then, am I dissatisfied if I am going to do the things for which I exist, and for which I was brought into the world? Or, have I been made for this, to lie in the bed-clothes, and keep myself warm?"—Marcus Aurelius.

DOUBLE FEATURE PROGRAM AT LYCEUM TONIGHT

Mix Makes Daring Leaps in New Picture

Tom Mix has a new picture with the alluring title of "Tom Mix in Arabia," which comes to the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday. It is the greatest "stunt" production that this agile Fox star has appeared in so far. Among other reckless feats is leaping an automobile over a fifteen foot embankment into the sea, and scaling the front of a castle at a rate of speed that would give the auditor of an accident insurance company a terrible chill.

But his most surprising stunts are performed in the interior of the castle, which is supposed to stand on the brink of the sea which washes the shore of Arabia. The Arabian gentleman in charge of the castle has made up his mind that Tom shall remain a prisoner, and that hard riding son of the Golden West sets out to liberate himself and a young American girl who is being detained by this same follower of the prophet.

There is a flying leap and somersault from a balcony into a sunken bath in the center of the castle floor that took the breath of even the Bedouins themselves.

Round 1 of "Fighting Blood"
The latest striking example of how a virtually perfect story in type can be immeasurably improved in its power to entertain when intelligently told in motion pictures is the first episode of the "Fighting Blood" series playing at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Saturday.

The "Fighting Blood" stories, by H. C. Witwer, made immense reading in the pages of Collier's Weekly. Brought to life on the screen with handsome George O'Hara as Gale Galen, the films are entertaining to the nth degree. It has been said by some that it was impossible to screen subtle humor—that screen humor must necessarily be of the slapstick variety. But "Fighting Blood" proves that it is possible to convey in motion pictures stories of such subtle humor that even while the spectator is being carried along in a rush of drama, thrills and romance he is constantly chuckling to himself and often bursting into uncontrollable laughter.

Not the least exciting part of the "Fighting Blood" pictures is the thrilling prize fight that takes place in every "round."

RICHARD BARTHELMESS and Tyrone Power in "FURY"

Barthelmess Gives Screen His Greatest Photodrama in "Fury"

Perhaps no word in the dictionary has been quite so overworked, misused and abused as "Great." It is a word that has been applied indiscriminately to many motion pictures. Once in a great while—and in this instance it is very properly applied—a photoplay justly deserves the appellation. Such a motion picture was "Fol'ble David." Now comes Richard Barthelmess in another which impels us to go one step further in superlatives and say "Greater," if not "Greatest."

That motion picture is "Fury," the First National attraction which will be shown at the New Park on Saturday and Sunday.

In this screen story by Edmund Goulding one sees Richard Barthelmess as "Boy" Leyton, the timid second mate of the "Lady Spray," whose rough old father, the captain, hates him for his docility. The whole nature of "Boy" undergoes a sudden change, however, when old "Dog" Leyton, learning of his son's contemplated elopement with a Limehouse boarding house slavey, casts aspersions upon Minnie. The enraged lad springs at his father and the captain, overjoyed at his son's display of courage, seizes him to his breast. Captain Leyton suffers a heart stroke and, dying, exacts a promise from "Boy" to avenge his mother, who has been mistreated by the man she had run away with. This must be done before he marries Minnie. The story has a novel twist that brings it to the happiest of conclusions.

Dorothy Gish gives one of her most appealing characterizations as Minnie.
